March 13, 2015

On September 16th the New York State Department of State accepted the Certificate of Incorporation submitted by Consumer Directed Services, Inc. under section 404 of the Not-for-Profit Law. A certificate that included the following statement:

To insure that the corporation remains focused on the empowerment of the people being served, as the service population grows, the corporation will expand the Board of Director Membership to insure that a majority of its seats are held by people with disabilities.

To assist Consumers with the problem of finding new Personal Care Assistants, Consumer Directed Services created a FREE Employment Information Bridge between Consumers and PCA Candidates.

- Consumers / Advocates

- To receive a copy of the weekly Newsletter, a Consumer or Advocate need only send me an email to elitcher@consumerdirectedservices.com and include your name and the text Newsletter Request.
- To search for a New Personal Assistant go to the Consumer Directed Services website and complete the form at the following link Consumer / Advocate - Search for a PCA Candidate. When your information is received it will be distributed to all of the PCA Candidates enrolled in the database and a variety of other Employment Resources.

- Personal Care Assistant \(PCA\) Candidates

To include your information in the Newsletter and Database, go to the Consumer Directed Services website and complete the form at the following link: Look for a PCA Job \(FREE\) - New York City Metro.

Previously distributed Newsletters (from January 12, 2011 to present) have been archived on the Consumer Directed Services home page. Finally, if you have any questions, comments, or recommendations about this service, or should you wish to remove your address from this list, please contact send an email to elitcher@consumerdirectedservices.com.

Best Regards, Ed Litcher

Consumers Searching

Consumers Wanted: For an Employment Information Bridge to work it requires traffic to flow in both directions. If you are in a Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Program, you will eventually need to find a new Home Care Worker. And up to now you may have relied upon Friends, Family, an Agency or you may have chosen to put your own advertisement on the Internet (See the list of Internet resources on the PCA Employment Agency page of this newsletter). Therefore, to help you find the PCA Candidate of your choice, I urge you, to do everything you ordinarily do, to consider an Internet resource and to try www.ConsumerDirectedServices.com. Finally, if you try Consumer Directed Services, please spread the word. Tell your friends and associates about this FREE service.

Comments: An extremely intelligent Consumer who is searching for PCAs to work 4 or 5 days per week during the day or night shift. The final schedule will be developed as the Consumer and PCA develop a positive long term working relationship. To achieve this goal the Consumer needs a PCA who truly understands the importance of their work (to her life and her ability to live independently), a PCA who takes pride in a job well done and a PCA who will not shy away from a complex employment opportunity.

UMass Amherst Econ. Dept. Chair Documents $45B Net Savings to Families, Businesses, Taxpayers from "NY Health" Program

NEWS FROM: Assembly Health Committee Chair, Richard N. Gottfried

For Immediate Release: Tuesday, March 10
Economic Study of NY Universal Healthcare Act Released

98% of Households Would Pay Less Than They Do Now and 200,000 Jobs Would Be Created

New York would net savings of $45 billion a year by creating a universal health plan, even after counting increased spending to cover the uninsured and eliminate co-payments, deductibles and out-of-network charges, according to an economic analysis released Tuesday, March 10. The Chair of the Economics Department at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst released the comprehensive economic study of the New York Health Act \(A.5062, Gottfried/S.3525, Perkins\), a proposed universal health care program for New York State. The full report can be found here.

Key findings include:

The Act would save $71 billion in its first year:

- $26.5 billion by eliminating private health insurance administration and profit;
- $20.7 billion by reducing healthcare provider administration of health insurance claims;
- $2 billion by eliminating employer administration of health insurance benefits;
- $5.4 billion by reducing fraudulent billing;
- $16.3 billion by capturing savings from overpriced drugs and medical devices.
- $26 billion would be used to increase coverage, meet demand for increased utilization, pay healthcare providers fairly and retrain displaced workers, leaving $45 billion ($2200 per New Yorker) in net savings;
- 98% of New Yorkers (families making up to $436,000 a year) would spend less on health care coverage under the Act than they do now;
- Overall savings to businesses would spur the creation of over 200,000 new jobs;
- Property taxes could be cut as local governments would save over $13 billion, because New York Health would take over the local share of Medicaid and the cost of public employee benefits would be reduced;
- 14,000 deaths would be prevented by providing universal access to healthcare

"Based on other studies of universal health insurance programs and the experience in every other industrial country that has one, I expected savings," said Gerald Friedman, Chair of the Economics Department at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. "But because New York's healthcare spending has increased so rapidly compared to income, the savings available in New York are even greater than in other states. Economically, this plan makes total sense. The only thing stopping New York from implementing it is the political power of the insurance industry and its tens of billions of dollars in profit from the current system."

"This detailed economic study gives us clear proof that a universal health care plan is the right move for New York," said Assembly Health Committee Chair Richard N. Gottfried. "We've always believed New York Health could reduce costs for families, employers, health care providers and taxpayers; create jobs; reduce property taxes and make sure every New Yorker has high-quality health care. Now we have actual numbers, and the benefits are extraordinary. This really changes the debate in New York."

"Exorbitant insurance company profits and incessant red tape don't improve health care," said Senate bill Prime Sponsor Bill Perkins. "This study resoundingly proves that and demonstrates the efficacy of our universal health care plan. It is time to finally put patients before profits for the good of all in New York State."

Where the Savings Come From

Despite health outcomes that lag other industrialized countries, New Yorkers are paying more for their health care. In 2013, the average premium for an employer-provided family plan in New York State was nearly $17,530 with employees directly paying over $4200, more than twice as much as ten years earlier.[1] For a family plan, the average deductible has doubled from $700 in 2003 to over $1400 in 2013.[2]

The current system includes dozens of separate insurance providers, including large government programs like Medicare and Medicaid and employment-based insurers. The New York Health Act would replace insurance company coverage, premiums, deductibles, co-pays, restricted provider networks and out-of-network charges with broad-based assessments based on ability to pay. It would provide comprehensive health coverage for all New Yorkers with full choices of doctors and other providers.

Eliminating the role of private insurance companies would provide the bulk of the savings. New York health care providers would save 13% ($21 billion) by eliminating the excess costs of dealing with insurance companies. Private insurers spend over 15% of premiums on administration, advertising and profit. Reducing the cost of health coverage administration to that of traditional Medicare would save $26.5 billion in the Act's first year.

Pharmaceuticals and medical devices in the United States are significantly more expensive than in other countries, about 60% on average higher than in Canada or Europe. The Veterans Administration saves about 40% on the cost of drugs through its purchasing power. By using its new purchasing power similarly, New York could save over $16 billion on the cost of prescription drugs and medical devices.

Fraudulent and duplicate billing costs between 3% and 10% of health care spending. Reducing costs by reducing "accidental" duplicate billing and having a single agency with the ability to investigate fraud would save over $5 billion.

Businesses now spend significant sums of money hiring health benefit consultants and choosing plans. Eliminating this wasted spending would save $2 billion, freeing businesses up to do what they do best - create jobs.

Of the total savings of over $71 billion a year, over $26 billion would be used to increase coverage, pay for increased utilization and ensure that providers were adequately reimbursed for services. The remaining $44.7 billion would be available to reduce local taxes and create economic growth.

Financing New York Health

The New York Health Act would be financed by broad-based assessments based on ability to pay. While the Act authorizes the Governor to propose a revenue plan, Professor Friedman's study looked at potential income brackets and assessment rates that would fully fund the plan. According to the study, New York households making less than $436,000 a year would pay less in New York Health assessments than they currently pay in premiums, co-pays, deductibles and out-of-network charges.

The study recommends exempting the first $25,000 of income from the assessment on payroll income, ensuring that low income New Yorkers and their employers would pay no assessment. The assessment would then rise gradually from 9% to 16% (for income over $200,000), with employers paying 80% (or more, if agreed to by the employer) and employees paying 20%.

Taxable personal income from dividends, interest, and capital gains would be assessed at the same rates.

Most businesses will also pay less than they currently pay. Establishments with fewer than 25 workers in 2012, for example, paid nearly 8% of their payroll for health insurance in addition to bearing the cost of managing their health insurance plan, and with rising costs they and all employers can expect to pay much more in 2019 under the current system. They would see a decrease in their average contribution. Establishments with over 24 workers pay over 10% now and would enjoy substantial savings. Public employers currently pay over 15% of payroll (coming from taxpayers) and will enjoy very large savings.

Job Growth

The study shows that by lowering the cost of health care and reducing the burden borne by employers, the New York Health Act will give New York companies a competitive edge with their out-of-state rivals. It will especially benefit small businesses and start-ups. By making it less expensive to operate in New York, businesses will have a competitive advantage, allowing them to expand and hire more workers. The study shows that there would be a net growth of 200,000 jobs in New York.

Better health care and saving lives

Deductibles, co-pays, and restrictive provider networks and out-of-network charges are major barriers to health care in New York, and would be ended by the New York Health Act. The study finds that over a third of households with health insurance had to go without health care last year, and in most cases it was for a serious condition. The numbers are even higher for those without insurance. By analyzing data on death rates and financial barriers to care, the study shows 14,000 deaths a year would be avoided by the New York Health Act.
