August 14, 2015

On September 16th the New York State Department of State accepted the Certificate of Incorporation submitted by Consumer Directed Services, Inc. under section 404 of the Not-for-Profit Law. A certificate that included the following statement:

To insure that the corporation remains focused on the empowerment of the people being served, as the service population grows, the corporation will expand the Board of Director Membership to insure that a majority of its seats are held by people with disabilities.

To assist Consumers with the problem of finding new Personal Care Assistants, Consumer Directed Services, Inc. created a FREE Employment Information Bridge between Consumers and Personal Care Assistant (PCA) Candidates.

Consumers / Advocates

To search for a PCA Candidate complete the form at the following link Consumer / Advocate - Search for a PCA Candidate. When your information is received it will be enrolled in the email database, and posted on the website for a month, distributed to all of the members of the Consumer Directed Services database (Consumers, PCA Candidates, and a variety of other Employment Resources), and published in the Consumer Directed Services Newsletter for a month.

Consumers Searching

Consumers Wanted: For an Employment Information Bridge to work it requires traffic to flow in both directions. If you are in a Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Program, you will eventually need to find a new Home Care Worker. And up to now you may have relied upon Friends, Family, an Agency or you may have chosen to put your own advertisement on the Internet (See the list of Internet resources on the PCA Employment Agency page of this newsletter). Therefore, to help you find the PCA Candidate of your choice, I urge you, to do everything you ordinarily do, to consider an Internet resource and to try www.ConsumerDirectedServices.com. Finally, if you try Consumer Directed Services, please spread the word. Tell your friends and associates about this FREE service.

Comments: We are seeking an experienced female companion/caregiver to help care for our grandma, an elderly lady, 83 years old with mild Alzheimer in her home. Our grandma is a kindhearted Indian woman from Trinidad with a keen sense of humor. She suffered from throat cancer a few years ago that affected her ability to eat so we are looking for someone who would be able to cook Indian Trinidadian meals for her. She also suffered from a stroke 6 years ago that affected her balance and speech so it is important that the caregiver be able to understand a Trinidadian accent.

Comments:

Please do not apply for this job if you are looking for something easy.

Apply only if you are willing to accept a challenge.

The work is hard but you will learn more about home care from this Consumer than you will ever learn from any class room program. Ms. Stern is an extremely intelligent – ventilator dependent quadriplegic – who has been disabled and living independently many years. Ms. Stern is searching for a PCA to work - 12 hours per day - 4 or 5 days per week during the day or night shift. The final schedule will be determined as the Consumer and PCA develop a positive long term working relationship. The Consumer needs a PCA who respects the commitments they make, a PCA who truly understands the importance of their work (to the Consumer's life and her ability to live independently), a PCA who takes pride in a job well done and a PCA who will not shy away from a complex (and personally rewarding) employment opportunity.

Assistants need a pay hike, too

By Mike Volkman

Times Union Commentary, Published 9:23pm, Sunday, August 16, 2015

Thousands of people in New York with disabilities like me who employ workers who help us live in our homes and the community use Consumer Directed Personal Assistance, a Medicaid program that allows a person with home care needs to employ personal assistants.

Fiscal intermediaries process our payroll and coordinate our employees' benefits on our behalf, and are reimbursed with Medicaid funds. CDPA saves state taxpayers tens of millions of dollars each year compared to licensed nursing agencies and other types of long-term care.

Recently, Gov. Andrew Cuomo's Wage Board recommended increasing the minimum wage for fast-food workers to $15 per hour. No one who works full time should have to live in poverty or rely on government programs to survive, and fast-food workers are not the only employees who receive inadequate wages.

Our employees' value to us is priceless, because we need them in order to live freely in our communities. Each day, they do heavy lifting to transfer us in and out of bed, cook our food and feed us, get us dressed, brush our teeth, and wash our bodies, deal with urine, feces and other bodily functions and fluids most people find gross. Personal assistants sometimes perform skilled nursing tasks as well, such as wound care and catheter care.

But their wages have barely budged over the past several years. This is not because we don't feel they deserve adequate pay, nor because money is being kept for profits instead of going to workers. Most CDPA fiscal intermediaries operate with overhead and administrative costs of just 8-12 percent, an extremely low level in the health care world.

The reason we cannot pay our personal assistants more is inadequate Medicaid reimbursement rates. These rates are set by the state; either directly in cases where the county administers the program or indirectly through the state's premium rates to managed care plans. According to the state Department of Health, the average Medicaid reimbursement rate for most CDPA fiscal intermediaries across the state has actually decreased over the past several years, while the cost of seemingly everything else has risen.

Ten years ago, we could offer our personal assistants a decent, competitive wage. Today, throughout the state, some consumers can only pay their personal assistants minimum wage. We are not aware of anyone who can even come close to paying their workers $15 per hour. It's not uncommon for a personal assistant to be on Medicaid, food stamps or other public benefits.

Recruiting and retaining quality employees has become increasingly difficult because the wages have not kept up with inflation. Trying to compete with an industry paying $15 per hour will make it harder. Lack of staff will place our health and safety in jeopardy, and increase our risk of hospitalization or significantly more expensive institutional care.

Cuomo and the Legislature must increase CDPA reimbursement rates so that we can pay our workers more. Cuomo's website essentially says he intends to try raising the minimum wage of every worker in the state. That would be great for our employees and for the sake of our freedom and independence. But to raise our employees' wages, we do not simply need a decree or a law. We need the state to provide the necessary funding to pay for raises.

We hope Cuomo sees this as a great opportunity to lead by example. If the state starts to require fast-food companies to put more of their money into the pay of their low-income workers, Cuomo could also make sure the state puts more of its money into the pay of low-income workers in state-funded programs, like our personal assistants.

Mike Volkman of Albany is a longtime disability rights advocate.

MLTC Policy 15.05: Clarification on Requirements for Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Service (CDPAS)
Fiscal Intermediaries

Date of Issuance: August 14, 2015

The purpose of this policy document is to clarify the conditions under which a managed care organization (MCO) may sign an administrative agreement with a Fiscal Intermediary (FI) for the administration of the Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Service (CDPAS).

For organizations interested in becoming an FI for a MLTC plan, the process is as follows:

- The organization must apply for a discrete Medicaid provider ID number that is solely associated with its FI by completing the New York State Medicaid Enrollment Form available at the following link:

https://www.emedny.org/info/ProviderEnrollment/personal\_care/index.aspx

Securing a contract with a LDSS is not necessary when contracting with a MCO. However, MCOs that want to become an FI must also establish a separate line of business with the appropriate firewalls in place to ensure that the FI operates separately from the MCO.

All FIs and those interested in becoming one must be able to meet all of the requirements as outlined in the CDPAS regulations at 18 NYCRR §505.28. Those requirements include, but are not limited to:

- processing each consumer directed personal assistant's wages and benefits, including establishing the amount of each assistant's wages; processing all income tax and other required wage withholdings; and complying with worker's compensation, disability and unemployment insurance requirements;
- ensuring that the health status of each consumer directed personal assistant is assessed prior to service delivery pursuant to 10 NYCRR §766.11(c) and (d) or any successor regulation;
- monitoring the consumer's or, if applicable, the consumer's designated representative's continuing ability to fulfill the consumer's responsibilities under the program and promptly notifying all appropriate parties of any circumstance that may affect the consumer's or, if applicable, the consumer's designated representative's ability to fulfill such responsibilities;
- entering into a Department approved administrative agreement with the health plan or contract with the LDSS for the provision of CDPAS; and
- ensuring that the FI is fulfilling the responsibilities to the consumer as outlined in 18 NYCRR §505.28(g).

Please review all existing FI administrative agreements to ensure that all of the above criteria, including a Medicaid provider ID number, is met. Any FI that does not meet these requirements will be granted a 120 day grace period from the date of issuance to achieve compliance.

ACA's Home Care Pilot Shows Strong Results Out the Gate

By Heather Drost

Posted: 7:10 AM, Aug 12, 2015

"This bipartisan bill will help coordinate care and lower costs for Medicare beneficiaries with multiple debilitating diseases, including Alzheimer's, ALS, congestive heart failure, diabetes and other chronic conditions." -- Rep. Edward Markey (D-Mass.), May 2009.

That bill -- called the Independence at Home Act -- aimed to provide primary care services to Medicare beneficiaries with chronic illnesses in their home setting. At-home care was not a revolutionary idea in 2009, but it had faded into the background in the U.S.

"[Home care] is a 100-year-old or more health care delivery model that grew in this country and then for various reasons became less well known, as things moved to an institution and office-based setting," Gary Swartz, associate executive director at American Academy of Home Care Medicine, said.

Home care advocates have long championed the financial and health benefits of treating elderly patients with chronic illnesses in their homes, rather than having them come to a medical office. The Independence at Home Act was quickly supported by several health care groups -- including AARP, the National Family Caregivers Association and the Visiting Nurse Associations of America -- as a way to reduce health care spending and improve the quality of care.

The bill eventually was added as a provision to the Affordable Care Act legislation and enacted in 2010 by President Obama. In 2012, the Independence at Home Demonstration project launched at 17 medical practices serving more than 8,400 Medicare beneficiaries.

According to the , the demonstration project addresses what some ACA critics have said is a missing component of the law, "an effort to rein in costs."

A analysis of Medicare data shows more than 94% of the $324 billion spent on traditional Medicare was spent on beneficiaries ages 65 and older with two or more chronic illnesses. The 2012 data show that about 15% of beneficiaries -- more than four million people -- have at least six chronic conditions and account for more than 41% of Medicare spending.

Meanwhile, CMS actuaries expect about 19.1 million additional people to enroll in Medicare over the next 11 years, spurring an increase in health care spending. For example, the latest projections from CMS estimate that health spending growth will rise to an average of 6.2% annually between 2019 and 2024, while Medicare spending is projected to increase to an average of 7.9% over the same period. The report attributes the growth in part to population aging as more baby boomers become eligible for the program.

Further, the health of seniors seems to be worsening over time, according to the USA Today analysis. The number of U.S. counties where 75% of senior Medicare beneficiaries have multiple chronic illnesses has risen by 20% since 2008.

Swartz, whose organization has worked closely with CMS on the demonstration project, said, "House calls will become even more important as the Medicare population is on an accelerated growth curve," and the number of beneficiaries with co-morbidities is rising.

Advocates, including the bill sponsors, have pointed to successful home health care programs across the U.S. that have contributed to reductions in expenditures for high-cost patients, such as those in: Washington, D.C., San Diego; Richmond, Va., New York; and Boston;

In addition, the pilot project was modeled after the Department of Veterans Affairs' Home-Based Primary Care program, which has been operating since 1972. The program, which provides comprehensive services in the home to veterans with high-cost chronic illnesses, has long been cited as an efficient and effective way to lower costs, reduce hospitalizations and improve care quality. Through the program, care teams -- made up of doctors, nurses, pharmacists, psychologists, rehabilitative therapists and social workers -- coordinate patient treatments, visiting a patient an average of three times per month.

A 2012 analysis by the American Action Forum showed the program resulted in a 24% reduction in health care costs and a 69% reduction in hospital inpatient days. The analysis stated, "Because patients with complex chronic conditions served by Medicare as well as those dually eligible for Medicaid and Medicare have similar care needs to the VA's HBPC enrollees, it raises the possibility that the use of an HBPC-modeled program could similarly reduce hospital and nursing home stays within entitlement programs."

The pilot program is putting that hypothesis under the microscope by testing the effectiveness of providing comprehensive primary care to costly, high-risk seniors who have limited mobility and have been diagnosed with at least two chronic illnesses. The program's 17 participants include several major hospitals, such as:

- Visiting Physicians Association in Florida, Michigan, Texas and Wisconsin.
- North Shore Long Island Jewish Health Care System; and
- Cleveland Clinic Home Care Services;
- Boston Medical Center;

Keith Lind, a senior strategic policy adviser at AARP's Public Policy Institute, noted that qualifying providers already have established house call delivery programs. The demonstration project requires them to perform home visits and report on quality metrics and patient satisfaction, and they receive no federal grants upfront. Those who meet certain quality standards and savings receive a share of government savings.

Under the program, practices must meet minimum savings requirements, which are calculated based on practice size, to be eligible to share in the savings. The first 5% of savings are allocated to Medicare and the remainder are shared with CMS based on quality performance. The percentage of savings the provider would receive as an incentive payment is determined by the number of quality measures it achieves.

The Independence at Home demonstration project by design is all risk to the practices and zero risk to Medicare and taxpayers, which is great for country, Swartz said. He noted that the 5% savings requirement for CMS "is unique among the ACA Innovation Center programs."

After three years, CMS released the first round of data from the demonstration program, revealing total savings of more than $25 million in the first performance year, with CMS receiving $13.3 million and practices receiving $11.7 million.

CMS said the project saved an average of $3,070 per beneficiary. Of the 17 programs, 12 generated savings and nine met first-year spending targets, which made them eligible to receive bonus payments. The payments ranged from about $275,000 to about $2.9 million.

Data from the American Academy of Home Care Medicine show that 1.5 million Americans would be eligible for the program if it were implemented at the national level, generating $4.5 billion in savings annually.

The promising start prompted Congress to approve ( SB 971 ) a two-year extension of the project, which Obama signed into law July 30.

Swartz said his organization is pushing to expand the program to become a permanent Medicare benefit. He said, "We learned you can build it, staff it, organize it and deliver care in this model. It is doable and replicable" at the national level.

Lind also praised the initial results and favors expanding the program. However, he noted that the sustainability of the program will be clearer after the results for year two and three are released.

However, he expressed some reservations about the program's restrictive criteria, noting, "[The participating practices] could be doing a lot more for people and have a bigger impact" if they didn't have to meet the program's strict savings targets.
