Notes

With this issue I wish to commemorate December 12th an important date in the life of the Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Program (CDPAP). To begin, I would like to note (December 12, 1931), the birth date of Victoria I. Holland, the Founder of the corporation that became the first CDPAP in the City and State of New York and next (December 12, 1977), the 34th Anniversary of the incorporation of the organization that she inspired us to create. It should be noted that the Certificate of Incorporation represents the first official outline of the program that would in 1980 be accepted by the Disabled Community and ultimately be authorized by the City of New York to provide services, initially as the Client Maintained Plan and more recently as the Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Program.

As stated in A History of the Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Program \(CDPAP\) in New York City 1977 to 2001

In response to the City of New York's effort to move from the direct payment home care system, a group of disabled and non-disabled people, connected to the "new" Roosevelt Island community, created a member organization that was originally called Concepts of Independence for the Disabled. Led by the corporation's founder Victoria Holland with Ira Holland and Ed Litcher, they were joined by Christine Flynn, Rose Pallasino, Judy Scherer, Art Tutman and a pro-bono Attorney Ray Werchen, to have the organization incorporated on December 12, 1977 Certificate of Incorporation - Dec 12, 1977.

With this issue I also wish to note that the Defined Benefit Pension Plan - Summary Plan Description which uses a logo that confirms the 1977 start date I discussed above, has recently been mailed to eligible pension participants. If your Personal Assistant was hired before June 30, 2003 and has completed at least 5 years of service they should be vested in this pension and they should receive a copy of this document. This summary document indicates that although this plan has been frozen since June 30, 2003, "your years of service earned after June 30, 2003 will still count toward the above (5 year) vesting schedule." Unfortunately the issue raised by this document is the loss of pension accrual that should have been earned by those who continued to work beyond June 30, 2003 and the denial of this important benefit to those who were employed after this date.

After reading the above Summary Plan Description, I reviewed a copy of the Summary Plan Description for the Supplemental Retirement Plan, which was prepared some time after April 22, 2008, and although the purpose (an enhanced pension benefit) and legal structure for this Profit Sharing Plan is completely different, the information contained in this second document was consistent with the above document in that it offered no good news to the eligible Personal Assistants. In the Supplemental Plan, a decision was made in 2002 to suspend all payments and effectively terminate this Pension. As a result, any Personal Assistant who worked at least one year as of June 30, 2002 and who was at least 21 years of age became fully eligible for a share in this Pension Benefit.

Given the bad news included in each of these documents, the question we are left with is what happened to the pension benefit?

Did the City of New York change its rate setting methodology and exclude the pension component from its rate calculation? Although this is a possibility, given the evidence, this option appears unlikely. As far as the City of New York and its rate setting methodology is concerned, it is most likely that the City continued to provide this rate component to all of the home care vendors along with the implied obligation to continue providing this benefit to all vested Home Care Workers. To demonstrate the reasonableness of this conclusion I have included the following statement from the 1199 Home Attendants and Housekeepers Contract, a document covering some 40,000 workers in New York City for the period July 1, 2007 through September 30, 2011, which states "the Employer shall contribute to a joint Labor – Management Pension Fund to provide pension and retirement benefits to Employees. Contributions are made based upon the work hours paid to Employees." Given the city's participation in the development and approval of this contract, it appears extremely unlikely that they would have permitted this language if they were not providing the rate support necessary to permit the agencies to comply with this requirement.

http://www.1199seiu.or/home\_attendants\_and\_housekeepers\_contract

The next option is that the City of New York specifically excluded the CDPAP from this section of the rate calculation. Again although possible, the City likes consistency and the City's historic approach to the rate calculation methodology was to use a very broad brush to cover as many programs as possible. As such, it appears extremely unlikely that the City would have chosen to exclude this component from the CDPAP rate calculation.

To illustrate this point, I can only pull from my own experience, which demonstrates the City's desire to achieve consistency. When we were in the early stages of the program's evolution and the unions were actively enrolling all of the home care workers, except those participating in the CDPAP, we were informed that the City could only authorize an increased pay rate if we signed a union's collective bargaining agreement or we had a Wage Agreement in which we specifically agreed to pay the "prevailing wage in the industry." As a result of this conversation, we initially developed a separate Wage Agreement that each Personal Assistant had to sign. The language included in this agreement eventually migrated into the general Personal Assistant enrollment documents and finally became part of the list of corporate responsibilities that was included in the Member Guide. Throughout this process it was clear that the City wanted some assurance that all of their Home Care providers would offer each of the Home Care workers a reasonably consistent package of wages and benefits. Therefore, given the City's historic desire for consistency within the Home Care Services Program, it appears unlikely that the city would have specifically excluded the CDPAP providers from this rate component.

Unfortunately, the conclusion of this review only leaves us with a list of unanswered questions. What happened to the pension? What happened to the New York City rate component with its implied obligation to provide this benefit? How does the loss of this important benefit help Consumers attract new Personal Assistants or maintain their current workforce? Hopefully, this review will prompt the corporation and or the City of New York to offer the Consumers, Personal Assistants and the readers a reasonable answer to the above questions

In closing I would like to quote from a sentence that can be found in the introductory statements of both Summary Plan Descriptions. This plan "was established to recognize and reward the efforts of you, our loyal employees, and to help provide greater financial security for you and your family."

And with the loss of this benefit what now?

Corrected Information: Angela Deanne Adams To Stand Trial for Medicaid Fraud in Greene County, MO by Joe Daves KSPR News 5:25 p.m. CST, December 6, 2011

FROM THE SOUTHWEST CENTER FOR INDEPENDENT LIVING: In response to the recent misreporting in local media outlets of the Medicaid fraud case Attorney General Koster has filed against Greene County resident Angela Deanne Adams, the Southwest Center for Independent Living (SCIL) has the following statement: Local media incorrectly reported Adams as a former employee of the Southwest Center for Independent Living. This is incorrect. Adams has never been directly employed by SCIL. However she was employed as a Personal Care Attendant (PCA) by multiple SCIL consumers with disabilities who received services on the program called Consumer Directed Services (CDS). It is written policy of the Southwest Center for Independent Living to self report any suspicion of Medicaid fraud such as duplicate billing or falsified time sheets and we reported Adams to authorities in 2008.
